

Join us for our event on October 11th

Dimensions of Investing

This half day event is designed for advisors who are new to Dimensional and for those who want a refresher on foundational concepts. The conference provides attendees with an understanding of foundational principles, such as research on the dimensions of higher expected returns, Dimensional's philosophy and integrated investment process, and how to communicate Dimensional's investment philosophy.

Advisors leave with a strong understanding of how Dimensional integrates financial science into their investment portfolios, and how Dimensional can support their overall investment offering and client communication.
